

The Democrat.

Thursday, July 8, 1876.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Harvest has commenced. Candidates are "materializing."—See Eaton Register.

Festivals are the go now among church-sustaining people.

Sunday was a very quiet Fourth of July in Eaton.

It is said that the small-pox is bad in Cincinnati. Keep away.

Tax-paying and the Fourth of July is over.

Subscription still received at the Democrat office without a penalty.

Rain, rain, rain! Will it never let up?

There was a good many got full of the Fourth of July last Saturday night.

Rains still continue to fall and our farmers have had a season of rest.

This is the season for the announcement of drowned boys. Three in Cincinnati last week at one haul.

The lager beer trade was lively last Saturday, and several kegs were emptied and several filled.

Some corn is apparently much injured by the recent wet weather, but weeds have a healthy growth.

Judge GILMORE has returned to Eaton, the Supreme Court having adjourned for three months.

Candidates have commenced harvesting. Some of their crops will be thin.

Our young friend FRANK C. STOCKTON, has many thanks for the late Galveston (Texas) Dailies.

The Long Branch Government now drives a pair of Preble county horses in its family carriage. A fact.

Monroe township is the promptest tax-paying township in the county. It is a democratic township.

The Treasurer informs us that there is but little delinquency on chattel property this year.

The late heavy rains have very seriously damaged the crops in this neighborhood.

There are a number of cases of typhoid fever in Eaton, the result of the miserable sanitary condition of our city.

Green apples will be later than usual this year, and doctors fear that the usual season of profit will be greatly delayed.

Few snakes have been seen this season. Perhaps the severe winter has had something to do with the non-appearance of the reptiles.

The left eye of the young lady of the period is constantly cast heavenward, to see where the brim of her hat on that side has gone.

J. P. Hareliman has a superior and choice brand of cigars, beside his other spiritual commodities. Drop in and "Cap" will wait on you.

Hundreds of our citizens go daily to the Blue Lick well on the public square and drink of its waters, and claim that it is proving a blessing to their maladies.

If the ladies make another reef in their dresses they will need to get outside when walking. They now look like a pair of one-legged pants of a peculiar pattern.

Revs. MARLEY and REYNOLDS exchanged pulpits last Sabbath evening. The Methodist parsonage of Presbyterianism and the Presbyterian of Methodistism.

Our Commissioners are removing the public stock vault which has annoyed the neighbors in close proximity so long. Now let the Board of Health do their duty, and our city will excite a different atmosphere.

Mr. JOHN LAXTER, our enterprising grocerman, presented the Masonic Order, on the occasion of their late anniversary, with a nice sugar-cured ham, which was prepared in good style by his excellent wife. The Order tender their thanks.

The Know Nothing party has thus far evolved four candidates for Auditor, five for Treasurer, four for Probate Judge, and an unlimited number for Representative and Senator. As there remains twenty-three days until their Convention, the "patriots" will have an abundance of time to announce their names.

On the night of the 1st inst., St. Patrick's Catholic congregation held a Festival on the grounds adjoining the Church. The lawn was beautifully lighted by Chinese lanterns, and the handsome cases and first-class ice cream and lemonades were rapidly disposed of. Altogether it was a very pleasant and enjoyable occasion.

The Republican Sons of Liberty held a meeting in Eaton on Saturday last, as per call of a secret circular issued by order from the Dayton Journal branch of the Eaton Register office, and appointed the 31st of July as the day in which they will go into the "slaughtering" business. All "seceders" are requested to be ready.

The man who don't take the papers was in town last week, accompanied by his wife, oldest "girl," and a little red-headed baby. He quietly hitched his beast to a lamp-post, told his wife and daughter to jump out; after which he lifted a sugar trough out of the wagon, and proceeded to rock the baby in the cradle of the deep. Not being posted on market reports he disposed of his onion stock at the rate of three cents per bushel. He also very innocently inquired after the health of Andy Jackson. Poor family—they were not aware that things had got considerably mixed since Andrew's time, and thereby lost the difference in several bushels of onions. Moral: Take the papers.

The Firemen's Parade.

The Fourth of July was handsomely and pleasantly celebrated in Eaton by our excellent and efficient Fire Company. At 10 o'clock the Fire Engine appeared on our streets, with their Engine beautifully decorated with flags and evergreen, and drawn by four spirited horses. The procession was headed by our famous Brass Band and the city Council; then followed the Steam Engine and the members dressed in full uniform; the old "Red Rover" Engine was trimmed off and in charge of Young America, and the workmen in the cigar establishments of Messrs. Quinn & Klinger and Ayers & Filbert, in two handsomely decorated wagons, brought up the rear. After parading through our streets, the capacity of the Engines to throw water was tested, near the Depot. Our Steamer can be beat—that is a fact, and sufficient comment—and the old "Red Rover" done bull under the control of the boys. When this exercise was closed, the Company repaired to the dining room of the Eagle Hotel, and partook of an excellent and sumptuous dinner, served up for the occasion by the host, Mr. W. C. Huston and lady, assisted by Mr. Geo. Kelly and W. A. Cleveland. Rev. Z. T. Sullivan presided the dinner with an impressive blessing, and after all present had partaken to their satisfaction of the substantial provided, the Mayor made a few desultory remarks, when the Band, whose concert of sweet sounds

"As sweet and musical As bright Apollo's lyre, strong with his hair," thrilled the room with its melting murmurs, and the crowd dispersed. The afternoon of the day was spent by the Company at the Fair Grounds, in "gripping the light fantastic toe," and other amusements. The celebration was a success, and all seemed to enjoy it with the utmost pleasure. Eaton has a Fire Department and a Company of which her citizens may justly be proud, and they should be ever ready and willing to assist and encourage its gentlemanly members in whatever is necessary to render it efficient in time of danger.

Another Suicide.

On Thursday, July 1st, Coroner BRIDGES and a jury held an inquest on the body of FRANK BUTT, a young man of near twenty years, who was engaged as a hand on the farm of J. T. MORRISON, in Lander township. On the day mentioned, after an early breakfast, Mr. Morrison, with his wife and two children came to Eaton, leaving this young man at work in the corn—they returned to their home at about 12 o'clock, M., and after preparing dinner the bell was rung—the little daughter of Mr. M. going up stairs to make some change in her apparel, discovered the young man, Butt, lying on the bed. Mr. M. went up, but thinking the man was sleeping under the influence of liquor, (to the use of which he was somewhat addicted) went down without disturbing him; he finally went up again, some half hour later, and in attempting to rouse the young man, discovered a wound in his head, with brains slowly exuding. Procuring the assistance of Mr. John Glendon, the two proceeded to wash the young man's head of blood, &c., and sent immediately for Dr. Kissing. A Colt's 7 shooting revolver was found on the bed at the right side of the body, with all the chambers discharged. The ball entered the right temple, its course being downward, backward and to the left, and the wound was necessarily a mortal one. The suicide lived about three hours after he was discovered, but showed no signs of consciousness. The verdict was in accordance with the facts above stated.

The Shooting Match.

A shooting match of the "Eaton Club" came off on Friday afternoon last, one hundred and twenty pigeons being the number cooped up for the occasion. The shooting commenced about 2 o'clock and continued until 4 o'clock, resulting in FRIEDRICH FISHER being declared the champion of the Club until the next match, which we understand will come off in a few days. The following is the

RESULT OF THE SHOOTING:
A. A. Churchill 1 0 1 0 1 0 1 1 1
Geo. Deem 1 0 1 0 1 0 1 1 1
Geo. Deem 1 0 1 0 1 0 1 1 1
F. Fisher 1 1 1 1 0 1 1 1 1
H. M. Markley 1 0 1 1 0 1 1 1 1
L. N. Monmouth 0 0 0 1 1 1 1 1 1
W. Nation 1 0 1 0 1 0 1 1 1
W. Nation 1 0 1 0 1 0 1 1 1
S. B. Tuttle 1 0 1 1 1 1 1 1 1
M. Thompson 1 0 1 0 1 0 1 1 1
A. G. Minshall 0 0 1 1 1 1 1 1 1

Several of the birds, though killed, were lost to the shooters by falling outside of the boundary. Geo. Deem lost two shots by defective caps and M. Thompson one. L. Monmouth lost six straight birds from light loading—he brought his next five. The match was satisfactory to the Club and all who witnessed it, and the shooting pronounced first-rate, considering that the members are amateurs at the trap.

Mr. Geo. Deem and Dr. Tuttle have our thanks for the string of the game they presented to us.

Dead Child Found.

On Saturday the 31st inst., the Coroner held an inquest on the dead body of a white child, found in the woods on the farm of Wm. M. Brooke, about two miles east of Eaton. The child had undoubtedly been born alive, and had either been smothered in a gray flannel skirt found with it, or had been deprived of life and buried under the rotten rubbish afterward. No clue has been discovered as to the brutal and unnatural mother.

School Superintendent.

At a meeting of the School Board on Monday, among the business disposed of was the selection of a Superintendent for the ensuing year. Mr. L. D. Broox, of Belpre, Washington county, O., was the person chosen from the several applicants. We understand Mr. B. to be a gentleman of high standing, and a scholar of the first order.

All About Dogs.

We don't know how soon after the first pair entered Eden, dogs put in an appearance, but as far back as we have any recollection of the human family, we remember dogs. The classic expression, "dog-on-it," indicates that they are of a very ancient origin. There is another theory which would seem to indicate that dogs had an early history. It is a well established fact that a very poor man is always the owner of several dogs. Now, as every age has been more or less afflicted with the poverty of some who have lived in it, how could the picture be complete without dogs?—Again, whose grandfather ever seen the picture of a blind man who was not led by a dog? Is there any ruder boy who ever tried to steal apples, except the one whom the old man stoned and the dog did not get after him? Was there ever a drowning child saved that a dog did not pull out? There are many kind of dogs. Goldsmith in his Elegy on Madam Blaize speaks of

"Mongrel, puppy, whelp and hound
And cur of low degree;
That Sergeant Bates of a fellow,
Who tried to carry a flag with 'Excelsior' written on it up the Alpine mountains, and who wouldn't stop for the old maid when she said—
"Oh stay and rest
Thy weary head upon this breast,"
but who went on whooping and yelling upon the mountain, got lost in the snow, as he described, and the poet says:
"A traveller by the faithful hound
Half buried in the snow was found."
Burns wrote a fine poem upon the two dogs. Old Dives would not do anything for Lazarus, but the dogs did. An English poet, at one time quite celebrated in describing a pauper's burial says—
"He was not so fondless,
Yes, there was, one only, faithful friend
To that forgotten wanderer, his dog."
Rip Van Winkle had a faithful dog. His name was "Snider," and he slept with him for twenty years without moving. But the various dogs may be grouped for convenience into two general classes, and if writers upon natural history would do this it might save confusion. The great well recognized classes are town dogs and country dogs. There is as much difference between a town dog and a country dog, as one can well imagine. A town dog knows all the alleys—knows every meat shop that he can slyly slip a good steak out of—knows what shop bucket to run his nose into, and he walks around the streets with his narrative erect. The country dog has a scared look as he comes into town, and well he may have, for if half a dozen loafers dog ordinarily sitting on the street corners do not make ferociously at him, some humane biped will betray his confidence and have an old oyster can tied to his tail in less than five minutes, and he will take it home and crawl under the barn with it in less time than Goldsmith's Maid could clear the same space. If you throw a boot jack at a country dog, you can always hit him plunk in the ribs, and with a doubtful yell he bids you farewell and waves you an awkward adieu as he tumbles over your fence to strike out for "home, sweet home."

The past week has been one of great mortality among our town dogs. Several distinguished ones have had the "bark" taken out of them. Ed. Lockwood's "Bose" was a well known dog. Ed. took him to a minister to raise, but it is thought the dog lost his "true inwardness" after he made the change. He died of "pizen" suddenly and without prayer. Luenberger had a fine dog, but became a little wild living in town. So Luenberger one night tied him to a stake near a fence, which so mortified the dog that he jumped the fence and this life before morning, and was found hanging on the other side. He was a "sooner dog," and the owner lifted up his voice and wept bitterly. The Coroner pronounced it a clear case of suicide and dog-matically adheres to the opinion. Beatty had a fine dog. He was a hunter and setter—he would hunt a bype with a perseverance which commanded the admiration of all his friends, and when he had found one would set and gnaw it from early morn until

"Night dropped her sable curtain down
And plumed it with a star."
Perhaps you have noticed one sweet voice in the chorus when the dogs gave a midnight serenade; that belonged to Beatty's "setter"—we shall never hear it again. "Death loves a shining mark," and that dog had to go. Five or six other dogs died last week, but they were only common dogs, hardly worth a passing notice—they were regular sons of—their mothers. One young thoughtless pup was shot with deadly shot for setting a bad example on a public street. A year or two ago an official notice was published that "all owners of dogs should be muzzled" during dog days—it ought to be enforced now—we don't own a dog—we can't be muzzled, neither can the freedom of the press—but dogs have no right to the freedom which our fathers fought, bled and died for—it is ours—ours in the language of the immortal Webster—"ours to enjoy, ours to transmit—and ours-on-it we mean to have it."

Mr. NELSON WELLS, while at work on a two story house for J. W. Chapman, about five miles west of Eaton, slipped and fell to the ground, and miraculously escaped without any serious or bodily injury.

Barnum's show will be here in all its glory. The small boys seem to be aware of the fact.

MARRIED.

HARLAN-GARDNER—On Thursday, July 1st, by Rev. A. J. Reynolds, Mr. C. C. Harlan, to Miss Anna Gardner.

The World's Show of P. T. Barnum.

All questions of both a national, social and personal character, seem to have lately been swallowed up in the fact that the Great P. T. Barnum's Great Travelling World's Fair, with its thousands of rare animals and innumerable features, vast canvas city concealed wonder treasures from earth, sea and air, and colossal combination of circus troupes, amid a host of pre-eminent mirth and music, monarchs, including the plumed and feathered, and several horse bareback riders, the great Brazilian Lowande; Mme. Dockrill, the most famous and bewitching of all acrobats; Tony, the child hero; Luke Rivers, the Crichton of the Arena; the incomparable Leslie Brothers; Nathaniel Lowande, the champion of carlisthies, and Wm. H. Porter, the silver-tongued humorist, will move upon us, in magnificent procession on Saturday, July 17th. It would simply be a waste of time and space to reiterate the repeated proofs of what every body knows—that the great subject Teacher of ages P. T. Barnum, and his world-famous Museum, Menagerie, Caravan and Hippodrome the most stupendous amusement enterprise ever projected. Press and people are unanimous in enthusiastic recognition, and the Pulpit joins in recommendation. Under these circumstances, the number and character of the attendance here may be readily surmised, and the wisdom of putting in an early appearance is self-evident.

Mr. JACOB HALDEMAN, well and favorably known in this county, died at his residence in Larvill, Ind., on the 29th of June, aged 74 years. The Columbia City (Ind.) Post, speaking of the death of Mr. H., pays the following tribute to him:
"Perhaps no man in the county was better or more favorably known than Jacob Haldeман, as he was generally known. Simple and unostentatious in his manner, upright and just in all his dealings. His word was emphatic and his conduct was above reproach—he had been accepted for a very considerable amount. The large measure of success which crowned his business rendered him neither proud nor harsh—he had a generous heart and open hand. He had long been a resident of Indiana, having first come to Richmond, Ind., in 1840, and he was twice married. Five children survive from his first marriage, and his widow and three small children survive from his second. He was a member of the Dunkard Church."

Normal School
In Xenia College, Xenia, O., the session of four weeks will begin July 20th. The school is well equipped with the best of facilities. Analysis, all the common branches, and many of the higher taught. The Professors will not do all the talking; the students will be required to do much of the work of the school room. Past sessions have been highly successful, and expenses $20. For full particulars address
WILLIAM SMITH,
Xenia, Ohio.

Worth its Weight in Gold!
The celebrated Dr. Cass's RADICAL CURE for Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Biliousness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, and all disorders caused by indigestion or a deranged liver. Its results are astonishing, and sure relief is guaranteed in every case where it is faithfully used. It tones up the stomach, regulates the liver, restores the natural appetite, strengthens the delicate, and expels all morbid humors from the system. Typhoid and Bilious fever might in almost every case be prevented by its timely use. A very few doses will relieve the most distressing cases of dyspepsia. Sold by MICHAEL & SONS, June 10, 1876.
